

Janet T. Riemer
Compiled for the
South Brunswick Historical Society
September 1977

These cemetery listings are as written by Janet Riemer in 1977 except as noted.

A paper copy is available for use at the South Brunswick Public Library.

Development of cemeteries in South Brunswick has occurred three phases. The first phase took place during the early settlement of the area, when the burial grounds were small plots set aside by landowners. Many of these plots were used exclusively by one family while others were shared with friends and neighbors. In size, they vary from a single grave to over fifty internments. At first, markers, when used, were crudely chiseled fieldstones. Later red sandstone was implemented. Most of these cemeteries today are either abandoned or totally destroyed. However, plans are underway for the possible restoration of several of the larger abandoned cemeteries by service organizations in the township.

Cemeteries representing this phase are as follows:

1. Vunk-Quick Burial Ground *
2. Higgins \(Higgens\) Family Burying Ground *
3. Probasco Family Burying Ground *
4. Van Dike Family Burying Ground *
5. Dean Cemetery
6. Van Pelt Cemetery
7. Isaac Slover Grave *
8. Thomas McDowell Plot *
9. Davison's Mill Burying Ground *
10. Stout Family Burying Ground *
11. Hush-Roberts Burying Ground
12. Chinese Cemetery
13. Beekman Farm Plot
14. Titus Family Plot

The second phase in the development of cemeteries in South Brunswick took place after the population had increased. Residents desired more formal cemeteries. This need was met by the development of church organized cemeteries. The following cemeteries are examples of this phase.

15. Fresh Ponds Cemetery *
16. Dayton Cemetery

17. St. Barnabas Episcopal Churchyard *

The Third phase of development of cemeteries is exemplified by modern cemeteries, begun since 1900. These are association owned and operated. Records of burials are kept by the associations and were not recorded for the township archives. The following cemeteries are representative of this group.

18. Washington Cemetery

19. Floral Park Cemetery

20. Oaklawn Memorial Park

21. Holy Cross Burial Park

In surveying the cemeteries of South Brunswick, it should be noted that several cemeteries located just outside the boundaries of the township served the residents of this area. The inscriptions from these cemeteries are not included in the following lists but most can be obtained from the Genealogical Society of New Jersey.

22. Kingston Presbyterian Cemetery

23. Ten Mile Run Cemetery

24. Mt. Zion AME Cemetery

25. Mt. Bethel Methodist Episcopal Churchyard

26. Van Dyke Family Burying Ground

27. Cranbury Presbyterian Cemetery

* The inscriptions from the cemeteries so marked were copied from the records of the Genealogical Society of New Jersey, located in the Special Collections Dept., Alexander Library, Rutgers University, New Brunswick, NJ

Van Pelt Cemetery

On Georges Road, near the intersection with Deans Lane, is the Deans School. When the existing building was constructed in 1928, the Van Pelt Cemetery was paved over to provide a playground area. With the permission of the families involved, the headstones were placed in the woods in the rear of the property. Inscriptions were recorded at that time by Mr. William Baker of Deans.

Isaac Slover Grave

According to a 1936 record, this grave was located on the south side of the Dayton-Jamesburg Road, [Ridge Road]. It could not be found in July 1974. Residents of the area stated that it had been on a knoll in a hedgerow .75 miles west of Browns Corner and then .2 miles south on a dirt road between a field and an orchard. It appears that clearing for an access road to the orchard deposited debris into the hedgerow, obscuring the grave.

Slover, Isaac, d. Sept. 3, 1805, aged 65.5.28

McDowell Plot

This single grave is in the Deans area of South Brunswick. It is located on the northwest side of Georges Road, .5 miles northeast of the intersection with Deans Lane. A solitary tombstone is propped against a tree on the southerly side of a grove of trees which is adjacent to the Hermann Forwarding Co. Although large and unbroken, the inscription has been completely obliterated. Fortunately, the inscription had been copied in 1952.

McDowell, Thomas, d. June 12, 1825, in the 71st year of his age

Davison's Mill Burying Ground

This cemetery is apparently extinct. No trace of it has been evident for many years. According to several old maps of the township, the cemetery was located on Davisons Mill Road, about one quarter mile east of Lawrence Brook. One map shows part of the north side of the road and another part of the south side, not directly opposite. An inscription was copied from the last remaining stone sometime in the 1930's. No other record has been found.

Van Pelt, Margaret C. Davison, wife of Gilbert S., b. Sept. 23, 1803, d. Jan. 16, 1875

Stout Family Burying Ground

This cemetery, located on the former Stout Farm, is no longer in existence. It was on the north side of the Ridge Road, 1.6 miles northeast of the intersection with Route #1. Prior to March 1952, the headstones had been removed from the plot in preparation for plowing of the area.

Stout, Hannah, wife of James Stout, d. April 17, 1855, aged 54.9.14

Stout, James, d. Sept. 14, 1851, aged 55.3.11

Stout, Sarah, wife of Johnson Stout, d. Jan. 9, 1840, aged 50 years

Hush-Roberts Burying Ground

In the Sand Hills area of South Brunswick, is this small cemetery, also known as the Thompson Plot. It is located in the woods on the east side of Sand Hills Road, .7 miles north of the intersection with Route #1. Although only three inscribed stones exist, it is known that many other burials took place there.

Hush, Aaron, d. Jan. 20, 1916, aged 70 years, "A Civil War Veteran"

Hush, Sarah C., wife of Aaron Hush, d. Oct. 20, 1914, aged 62 years

Ten Broeck, Amos, b. 1876, d. 1938

Ten Broeck, Bertha, wife of Amos Ten Broeck, b. 1882, d. 1968

Chinese Cemetery

No evidence of this cemetery remains today. The location is overgrown with no stones apparent. Knowledge of its existence comes from a long-time resident of the Little Rocky Hill area. The cemetery was on the northeast corner of the intersection of Old Road and Chinese Lane, .3 miles from the northern intersection of Old Road and Route 27. A Chinese family farmed in the area for many years and used this plot as a cemetery. It is not known if stones ever existed. NEEDS CORRECTION

Beekman Farm Plot

This cemetery appears to no longer be in existence. It was located on a farm owned by the Beekman family which was on the east side of Route 130, a short distance south of the intersection with Stults Road. Several headstones were remembered by a long-time resident of the area but no evidence of them has yet been found.

Titus Family Plot

On the edge of Kendall Park is a solitary headstone marking a family burial plot. Located on the old farm behind Hodge Road, along the northern boundary of the farm, it is the only marker remaining, although several burials took place there.

Titus, Thomas, d. July 21, 1819, in 65th year

St. Barnabas Episcopal Churchyard

Located at Sand Hill is the churchyard begun by the congregation of St. Barnabas Episcopal Church. Behind the old chapel, it is approximately 200 feet east of the intersection of Route #1 and Major Road. The cemetery has between 80 and 90 graves and is now operated and maintained by an association.

Dayton Cemetery

The Dayton Cemetery is an old but still active cemetery. It is located on the west side of Georges Road, .1 mile north of the junction with the Ridge Road. On an 1876 map of South Brunswick, a Baptist Church is shown on this site. The cemetery was probably begun by the congregation of this church, but the church is no longer in existence. In 1878, the Dayton Cemetery Association was formed and maintains the cemetery at present. Only burials prior to 1950 are included in the following list.

Fresh Ponds Cemetery

It is believed that the Fresh Ponds Cemetery was begun by the congregation of the Methodists-Episcopal Church of Fresh Ponds, which is no longer in existence. The cemetery is located on the south side of Davison's Mill Road just west of the intersection of Fresh Ponds Road. Several of the tombstone inscriptions are in German, indicating the heritage of the area's residents. The cemetery is still active.
